Still After the Lambs.

The Tribune man has just received a letter from a Los Angeles company which offers us a good thing. It is about like this: There are a lot of California people who have orange groves that they would like to dispose of. They offer to trade them to people in the east for eastern property, and if the Tribune will advertise this scheme they offer to give us a commission on each sucker that bites. This matter of catching eastern lambs on a California orange grove has become so old that it would seem as if nobody would go against the game any more, but it must be that there are still buyers or the westerners would not take the trouble to go after the business.

There is probably nothing more alluring to an eastern farmer who has put in the greater part of his life in clearing and bringing to perfection a stumpy and stony piece of land than to imagine himself the owner of a California orange grove where he can sit in the shade of the sweet smelling trees while the oranges grow and produce for him a magnificent living.

But those who have been up against the game say that there is nothing in the orange business, and that it takes a hustler with plenty of business ability to make a living out of a good sized orange orchard.

However, if there are any of our readers who really feel that they can get the better of a westerner on a land trade, and want to try it, we will send in their name.

They Stole His Valise.

Nekoosa Times.—Two well dressed strangers who boarded the train with Henry Ulrich one evening last week, held him up near New Lisbon, stealing his valise which they supposed contained $9,000 paid by the real estate man that day by Senator Boyd who bought the G. Gurtler farm.

The two posed as land buyers and hung around Mr. Ulrich until train time when he told them he was going home to Chicago. They decided to go to Chicago too, and boarded the train with him. On the way the real estate man used the valise for a pillow when one of the "land buyers" offered him his overcoat nicely rolled up and placed it under his head, the other fellow covering Mr. Ulrich with his coat.

Near New Lisbon, they suddenly grabbed the valise and escaped with it, leaving their overcoats, one of which contained $95 in currency. The valise they took in exchange for the overcoats and money, which they supposed had in it the $9,000, actually contained two copies of the Wood County Times and a beautiful government Guide to Wealthy the grip itself being worth $2.50.

The farm "consideration" had previously been deposited in a Grand Rapids bank out of reach of the would be train robbers but if they will carefully study the guide to wealth and follow its advice, no doubt they will be able to acquire many times $9000 without danger to their liberty.

Potatoes are Firm.

Potato buyers at this point started in Monday offering fifty cents per bushel for the tubers, but the receipts have not been very large even at this price. There were quite a number of potatoes raised in this section in spite of the blight and rot, but farmers are as general thing holding them for good prices. Considering the smallness of the crop there could have been no money in selling at the price that has been offered.

Secretary John M. True of the state board of agriculture says in his October crop report that the potato crop this season will be about 50 per cent as large as last year. The report is based upon returns made by correspondents in all sections of the state within the last few days. The counties in the southern part of the state apparently suffered less from potato blight than those in the big potato raising counties in the central division. Mr. True estimates that the yield in the southern counties will be 53 per cent of last year.

"Several counties report more or less rot," says Mr. True, "but as a general thing the quality of the crop is good, the tubers are not large. The prospects are that this year's crop will be much more remunerative to the farmer than that of 1904."

Matters at the Penokee

The Penokee mine resumed its operations after a day of shut down spent in putting in larger pumps. At the present depth there was a sudden influx of red water, a sign regarded by mining experts as practical assurance of the presence of a large body of ore. It is hoped that the new machinery is sufficient and that the work from now on will be continuous.

The above is from the Mellen Weekly but only tells a part of the story of the work that is being done at the mine of the Penokee mine. George M. Pulsifer, the manager of the company was in this city last week and he stated that the work is going forward at a rapid rate and that the indications were never so favorable as they are at the present time.

Piano Tuning.

I will be in Grand Rapids about the 25th of October to do piano tuning and other work in that line. Orders left with A. P. Hirzy will receive prompt attention. J. G. Remfrey.

WON FROM WAUSAU

Highschool Football Game Results in Victory for the Home Team.

If the Wausau highschool team had any aspirations toward the championship it must have been successfully obliterated from their minds last Saturday afternoon when they played the local highschool team in this city. The game was a victory for the home team by a score of seventeen to nothing. Of course we are all against football because it is such a rough game, but if it has to be played, why, of course we like to see the home team win. There was not a time in the game of Saturday when the Wausau team stood a chance of winning but notwithstanding this fact they contested every foot of the ground from start to finish and put up the very best defense possible.

As to weight, the two teams were said to be about equal, although it was evident that some of our men were heavier than the visitors. The day was an ideal one for the game, but the crowd in attendance was not as large as it should have been on an occasion of this kind.

Our boys were especially pleased to win Saturday's game as during the past two years Wausau has won from us, and they had made a special effort to be in good shape for this occasion. If they continue thru the season the way they have started in, they will carry off the honors in this section.

Following is the lineup of the two teams:

Wausau.	Grand Rapids.
Wagner	Edmund
McFarland	McFarland
Olegrad	Olegrad
Potawilz	Potawilz
Buyer	Buyer
Chose	Chose
Hayes	Hayes
Nash	Nash
McDonald	McDonald
Arpin	Arpin

Wyoming.

It is with pleasure and satisfaction the Tribune is able to announce that manager Hamilton has secured for a one night offering the celebrated R. E. Magnus Players who reproduce "Wyoming" at the Grand Opera House next Friday night, Oct. 20th. The booking in Grand Rapids and the smaller cities this season of the Magnus players who appeared last season in Chicago at fourteen performances and lengthy engagements, in Kansas City, Nashville, Atlanta and other cities in the south and west, is brought about because the Magnus players determined not to be at the best of the gigantic theatrical trust, preferring to play the theaters in the "independent circuit."

Wyoming is a sparkling comedy drama of the west and it was while Mr. Magnus was recruiting his health on a stock ranch in the state of Wyoming that he obtained material for the play he now so successfully presents. There is an absence of the "wild and wordly" element in "Wyoming" that characterizes many of the so called "Western Dramas" but the portrayal of cow boy and custom life is true to surroundings. To add local color to the accessories were brought from Wyoming and the scenic equipment carried by the company is exact copies of western scenes as revealed by photographs.

Unlike most traveling companies the support is competent and satisfactory and among it are former members of the Fiske, Mansfield, Southern and other noted companies. Advance sale at usual place without increase prices for a city production.

May Build Addition.

There was a meeting of the directors of the Grand Rapids Brewing Co. on Friday evening for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of enlarging the brewery. Although the plant has been in operation only a short time the demand for the product has become greater than the present capacity of the brewery can supply, and as a consequence it has been found necessary to turn down a considerable amount of business, and not to enlarge the field of business. A meeting of the stockholders of the concern has been called for the 2nd of November, at which the matter will be discussed and some definite conclusion arrived at.

Got Six Months.

Charles Lehman appeared before Judge Webb on Monday and pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing and the judge made it six months in jail. The man was brought here from Marshfield.

Boettcher Goes to Prison.

Gus Boettcher, the young fellow who was charged with having broken into the store of Gross and Lyons and stolen a quantity of merchandise, was caught at Fargo last week and brought back to this city and on Tuesday he appeared before Judge Webb and pleaded guilty to the charge against him and received a sentence of one year in Waupun.

Boettcher has had quite a time since he left here. He was captured once in Indiana, but while the sheriff was taking him to the train he got away and had quite a fight with his pursuers, during which several shots were fired by both sides, but nobody was hurt. He eluded his captors, however, and managed to keep his whereabouts a secret until he was captured near Fargo.

The fool career of this fellow should be a warning to all boys who are figuring on getting something for nothing. Had he managed to get away with his plunder it would have amounted to only a few dollars, hardly sufficient to pay a young fellow for making an outlaw of himself. No doubt during the time he has been pursued by the officers of the law he has suffered enough to pay for his folly a dozen times, besides which he must suffer a jail sentence, the reputation of which will hang to him for many years.

Look First Prize.

Mrs. L. S. Cohn came up from Cranmoor on Friday and remained in Wausau until Monday. Mrs. Cohn is the owner of a very fine cranberry marsh at Cranmoor where she goes each season to look after the same. Last year the cranberry growers of the United States were induced to send to the World's fair at St. Louis a certain amount of their berries in competition, that it might be determined where the best were grown. Mrs. Cohn sent down a liberal amount from her marsh, nothing was heard as to the outcome of the competition until a few days ago when Mrs. Cohn received word that her cranberries had taken first place, and that she had been awarded a diploma and bronze medal.

The diploma accompanied the letter but the bronze medal will be sent later, when it is completed. Mrs. Cohn feels very proud over the result of the competition. Truly Wood is a great county. It carried off the first prize at the state fair and now comes the honor of the finest cranberries in the world being now grown in its borders.—Wausau Pilot

Schall-Wight.

Louis A. Schall of this city and Miss Helen C. Wight of Eau Claire were married on Tuesday in the Congregational church at Eau Claire. Rev. Mr. Pike of that city officiating. They were accompanied by Robert and Mary Wight, brother and sister of the bride. They will arrive in this city today and will go to house-keeping on the west side, where they will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

The young lady mentioned above has during the past five years been a teacher in the high school at Eau Claire and is a most estimable young lady, while Mr. Schall has many friends in this city who will extend to him the heartiest of congratulations and wish the young people a long life of happiness.

Death of Louise Binneboese.

Mrs. Louise Binneboese died on Sunday at the home of her son, Henry Binneboese, on the east side at the age of 81 years, death being caused by a complication of disorders due to old age.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Louise Bernhagen, was born in Germany on the 5th of September, 1824, but has made her home in this country for many years. She is survived by five children, they being Henry Binneboese of this city, Herman Binneboese of South Centralia, Gust Binneboese of Nekoosa, Carl Binneboese of Germany and Mrs. Karberg of the west side.

The funeral occurred on Tuesday from the German Lutheran church, Rev. Maack officiating, and the remains were taken to Nekoosa for interment. Mr. Binneboese is also buried there, he having died about three years ago.

Appleton Case On.

During the past week the attention of the circuit was occupied by the Appleton waterworks case. The case is to decide what the city of Appleton shall pay the waterworks company for hydrant rental. It seems that the city had been paying the sum of $1000 per year for hydrant rental, but that the company raised the rate. The city would not stand for the raise of fifty per cent and has continued to tender the sum of $1000 per month which the waterworks company has refused to accept. The lawsuit was to discover which of the interested parties was right in the matter. The case was not finished.

A New Violinist.

M. G. Kohn of Chicago arrived in this city last week with a view to settling here provided he could get enough business in his line to pay him to remain. Mr. Kohn is a violinist and harpist and expects to lead the orchestra here and give lessons. He has rented rooms in the new Wood block where he can be found by those who wish to see him.

A FINE SHOWING.

Womans Club Entertains Gentlemen at the Home of Mrs. Gardner.

There was something doing at the home of Mrs. G. R. Gardner on Saturday evening, the occasion being the annual banquet of the Womans Club, which was held there that evening. Now the Womans Club, as a general thing, does not show any great amount of charity toward the sterner sex, but once a year, on the occasion of their annual banquet, they open their hearts and invite in the gentlemen and just give them a peep at high life.

One of the principal features of these annual banquets is the banquet that is to the ladies. To the gentlemen, the entire part does not carry a great deal of weight, notwithstanding the remarks made by a certain gentleman present about feeding a man in order to live happily with him. Any man whose wife belongs to a womans club of any kind would be willing to testify that two or three good quotations from Shakespeare would do more toward satisfying the average man nowadays than the best meal of victuals that was ever concocted. It did not need to be so in the time of our forefathers, but man had not then reached the high stage of development which he has since attained.

The festivities on Saturday evening started in with the banquet, and the guests sat down to the tables at about half after seven. To attempt to describe in words the quality of the viands served on this occasion would be useless. The culinary part of the affair was under the supervision of Mrs. Gardner, and to say this should be sufficient to express the idea that everything was all right. The menu was as follows:

Radishes	Wafers	Calery
Baked Whitefish	mushroom sauce	Chenibouers
Potatoes
Roast Goose with dressing
Apple Sauce	Olives
Creamed Potatoes	Sandwiches
Grape Ice
Fruit Salad	Wafers	Cheese
Plum Pudding, with sauce
Salted Nuts	Coffee
After Dinner Mints

Miss Carolyn Brainerd, who is president of the club, acted as toast mistress, and performed her duty in a most acceptable manner. "Social Leaders" was responded to by Rev. Fred Staff, who departed from the subject a trifle and gave the ladies some very good advice.

"As Others See Us" was responded to by Mrs. J. E. Daly, and her talk was a most interesting one.

H. S. Youker under the subject of "Woman Militant" said some very nice things about the ladies, after which Miss Faye McElbath took up the subject of "The Gentleman" during which she handed them just a few to remember her by, after which she said several nice things about them, which each one, of course, applied to himself. The company united in singing And Lang Syne, which finished the banquet part of the entertainment, and the company retired to the parlor while the tables were cleared away and the floor prepared for dancing.

Colcord's orchestra was present and to the seductive strains of their music the company danced away the remaining hours until midnight in a most happy manner.

Everybody seemed to be of the opinion that it was the most successful banquet that the Womans Club had ever given. There was no formality about any part of the evening's entertainment, and all the elements seemed to combine to make it a success. The house had been very prettily decorated in red and white, while at each guest's place there was a hand painted menu, the work of one of the members of the club.

Should the Womans Club at any future time decide to admit gentlemen, there is little question but what they would have numerous applications for membership.

A Noted Case.

A case was argued before Judge Webb last week which is attracting considerable attention and which interests a great many of the people of the state. The case is that of the state against W. H. Angelo of Peachfield, who is charged with having ridden on a pass and at the same time holding a public office.

Both of the charges were admitted by the defendant but he contended that the law was unconstitutional, and it was on these lines that it was being argued.

The law as it now stands is a good many years old. In Wisconsin many were receiving favors from the different railway companies in the shape of transportation in one way and another, and at the same time they held some petty office. This not only public, school commissioner or something of the sort. After the law was passed they had either to throw up the office or the transportation. Where they were serving the city, county or state free of charge they generally gave up their office, but where there was any money in the office they gave up the transportation.

This case was taken under advisement by Judge Webb, and he will render his decision in the matter later, so that it may be some time before it is known how he decides the matter.

Met the New Preacher.

The members of the Methodist church held an informal reception at their church parlors on Friday evening of last week, the occasion being for the purpose of meeting the new pastor of the church and his family. It was supposed to be only a small informal affair, but after all the members and their friends had assembled in the church parlors there was something like one hundred and fifty in the room. A short program had been prepared for the occasion, which was listened to with a great deal of interest by the present Rev. Shuman, the new pastor, gave a short talk that was quite interesting, and after this part of the entertainment was over, a light collation, with hot coffee, was served. The evening was very pleasantly spent and those present were very favorably impressed with the new man.

Football Saturday.

Arrangements have been perfected for a game of football on Saturday next between the Merrill highschool team and the high school team from this city. Our team beat the Merrill team by a score of 6 to 0 at their last game, the score being made by a long run, making a touchdown and subsequently kicking goal. Merrill people claimed that their team had the better of the game before the final score was made that gave the home team the game. Our boys intend to show them that they can win without any accidents next Saturday.

Velvety Cream Gravies.
Corn starch is better than flour, and it is well to know that the yolks of two eggs are equal to a tablespoonful of flour for thickening sauces. Sauces may be very easily varied in this way. French and German gravies are the American way of thickening so often with flour and so seldom with eggs.

Useful Velvetten Skirt.
The velvetten skirt is considered quite the correct accompaniment for elaborate bodices of all sorts and descriptions. It is gored, it is of circular

The first costume is of green cloth and green velvet. The skirt is of velvet encircled at the bottom with wide bands of cloth stitched at the edges. The blouse is also of velvet, with stole collar, center plait and grille of the cloth bordered with stitching and embroidered with satinette. The sleeves are of velvet, finished with cuffs of the same and last wrist ruffles of the other gown is of deep violet cloth. The short, graceful skirt is of two groups of plaits. The plaited basque, has a collar of the material, to which is added a ruffled shoulder collar. The turnover collar is to lag the gown, and the skirt is striped with bands of the same. On one side with plain coat sleeves are the top.
